Living without Catholic Social Action -
How to muck people up

A talk and discussion led by

Dr Derek Indoe,
Consultant Clinical Forensic Psychologist, Bath Mental Health Consultancy

7.30 p.m. on Wednesday February 16th in St. John's Parish Hall*, South Parade, Bath.

This talk will address the centrality of psychological research in human development and how this goes hand in hand with Christian teaching. It will cover issues such as the Church's option for the poor and the marginalised, and the concept of Christian happiness and modern spirituality. It will in the process touch upon issues such as the nature of sex offending, the importance of the family to individual development and vice versa and how the gospels wrongly interpreted can be destructive of the individual rather than setting us free to be sons and daughters of God.

Coffee & biscuits.
